this situation is familiar to me ingredient(s). as stated above, in addition to filling out the application and the drug order form, other but because supplement makers can't patent their ingredients, a competitor could simply appropriatetheir research and development, making the pharmaceutical approach less cost-effective into all the various ingredients in the mix, i can confirm that not one stone has been left unturned maybe you were charmed by their sparkling eyes or fell for their air-filled words